November 2005 Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs)

Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs) is this year's infectious disease month (November) topic. Over 68 million Americans are living with a STI and each year, about 15 million new cases occur. In the 1960's, only two STIs were known; today, there are at least twenty-five known STIs. With so many new STIs and more Americans becoming infected throughout all age groups, it is important to recognize and know the recent facts about STIs.
